OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The Philippine Stock Exchange index (PSEi) rose by 5.69% to 7,229.66 for the month of January. Most of the gain occurred in the first week of the year, spurred by bargain hunting by domestic funds and the reversal of foreign fund outflows. After the local market lagged the region in 2016, the PSEi started the year as one of the best markets as it traded at only 16x 2017 P/E, below the 5-year average of 18x. Financials, MBT (+12.26%) and SECB (+12.21%) , as well as Telecoms, GLO (+13.98%) and TEL (+7.69%) were the top gainers for the month. Financials were strong on the expectations that higher interest rates will lead to better net interest margins. Telecom stocks rallied as both GLO and TEL saw bottom fishing as both stocks declined by -18.52% and -33.74%, respectively, in 2016. URC (-0.31%) underperformed on expectations of higher input costs. Foreign funds finally turned net buyers of US$5.8mn, ending 5 months of foreign selling of USD$975mn which started last August. Average value turnover declined 7.21% month-on-month to US$122mn.
